This country is not France: it's condition is vastly different; but the effort to elevate men to civil office for military service, shows a tendency which demagogues have to drive the Thatluving healts are missing in that cottage in the cell. ship of State on the old breakers. We have been all the talent and zeal of a party in this country enlisted to elevate that head of the regular army to the office of President. To do this, it was necessary to invest the object of their servile idolatry with some civil question, in spite of history, in apite of the memory of the living, and the record ed testimony of the dead. The effort has been made to teach the lesson in this Republic, that the high road to the head of the State, is through the army; to invite all the ambition of this country into a military channel, to disparage all civil merit and worth before the cap and feathers.

The road to despotism in this country is a long one; yet, we have no standing army able to over awe the voters of this country. Such an engine ship of State on the old breakers. We have seen all

What has France gained and lost? Through seas of blood she waded to free institutions .- sentenced to be hung on the first Friday in Jen-How fairly she once promised! The republicans uary. throughout christendom indulged high hopes of her complete disenthralment: but military glory, only by inheritance, reared its head, and gratitude-mis directed gratitude to a name-led the people to trust their institutions in the hands of a Napoleon. Freedom is gone in France; even the name is gone, sacrifised to an insane admira tion of an itary glory. The servant has become the master, and an inexorable tyrant he is.

Well, it's ell right, perhaps. France needs another hard lesson; all Europe needs it. Freedom and large standing armies can't exist together .-A people that can't do their own fighting to order, can't be free. If they have not self-respect enough to maintain their own independence of military leaders, let them be slaves. If they will paya servile homage to a Ge. eral they have made, who is the work of their own hands, they must reap the fruit of their own sottishness.

IT A difficulty occurred last evening at the Webster on Evidences of Christianity. A low evenings since, sitting by his own preside, after a day of severe labor in the Supreme court, Mr. Webster introduced the last Sabbath's sermon, and discoursed in animated and glowing eloquence for an hour on the great truths of the Gospel. I cannot but regard the opinions of such a man in some sense as attempting to recall some of those remarks which were uttered in the privacy of the domestic circle. Said Mr. Webster: "Last Sabbath ! listened to an able and learned discourse upon the evidence of christianity. The arguments were drawn from prophecy, history, with internal evidence. They were stated with logical accuracy and force; but, as it seemed to me, the clergyman failed to draw from them the right conclusion. He came so near the truth that I was astonished he missed it. In summing up his arguments, he said the only alternative presented by these eviden. ces is this: Either christianity is true, or it is a delusion produced by an excited imagination. Such is not the alternative, said the critic; but it is this: The Gospel is either true history, or it is a consumato be, or he was an impostor. There is no other alternative. His spotless life in his earnest enforcement of the truth, his pose that he was suffering an illusion of the heated brain.

Every act of his pure and holy life er of truth, and the uncomplaining sufferer for truth. Now, consider the purity of his doctrines, the simplicity of his life, and the sublimity of his death, is it possille that he would have died for an illusion? -In all his preaching the Savior made no popular appeals. N. B. We pay no commission to teachers for their aid, or recommend, in seiting to the parents or guardians of their pupils, or to amende and praising ours to their friends and acquaintances. But we rely entirely upon the merit of our Pianos, and their well known reputation and intrinsic value, when compared with those of other make, together with the judgment of Mr. G. W. Brainard (a performer) in selecting our Pianos Fortes.

To those who have so often a wed us why some of the professors and amateur performers and teachers, often, and unit mily, speak against Chickering's Pianos, the above hint will unfold a mystery. We are satisfied that when the judic fully understand this commission on Pianos, and that some (not ail) of our teachers and smaleur performers will barter away the confidence reposed in them for a commission varying from $10 to $55, they will be careful to employ taowe only to select their lawfullments who will have an eye to the quality and value of the Plano-Forte, as well as to the amount of the commission.
